The construction north of our store has been quite inconvenient.

I tried to be a good neighbor, allowing them to use my parking lot when they topped and removed some of the trees. I asked them, as good neighbors, if they would trim our large dying maple .. they responded with an unfriendly $1,000 price tag.

The large trucks going in and out make it a little more difficult for my customers to find my driveway. I'm surprised there has not been an accident, given the speed of the traffic on main street.

The lack of mowing between the sidewalk and the road makes us all less attractive, not conducive to business.

The construction noise, loud truck & forklift engines, beeping when in reverse, nail guns, saws, etc., all hurt business. Dust doesn't help either.

Respectively,

PS, would it be too much to ask for some remittance to neighbors, for this construction. We sure could use the money .. $500 or $1,000 would be nice .. a drop in their bucket.
